Palace seeks role in US probe

By John L. King, Jr. and R.C. Zimmerman

MANILA, PHILIPPINES (AP) — The US Congressional investigation of suspected involvement by the Philippines in some major world terrorism events, including the 9/11 attacks, has a new twist: The Philippines is seeking a role in the probe.

The Philippine government, through its foreign ministry, has asked the US to allow it to participate in the investigation. The request was made on Feb. 12, a day after the US House of Representatives passed a resolution that the Philippines was involved in the 9/11 attacks. The resolution also stated that the Philippines was involved in the 2002 Bali bombings and the 2003 Manila bombings.

Montano waffles over funds

By Corrin O. Salas

MANILA (Philippine Daily Inquirer) — The Philippine Commission on Good Governance (PCGG) has asked the Department of Justice (DOJ) to file a complaint against the late Senator Juan P. Montano for allegedly misappropriating funds from the PCGG.

The PCGG, which was created by the 1988 Anti-Graft and Corrupt Practices Act, has been investigating Montano since his death in 1998. The commission has accused Montano of misappropriating funds from the PCGG to pay for his personal expenses, including his medical bills and the purchase of a car.

Montano's family has denied the allegations, claiming that the funds were used for legitimate expenses. They have also accused the PCGG of being biased against Montano.

The DOJ has agreed to file a complaint against Montano, but it has not yet decided whether to do so. The PCGG has expressed its disappointment with the DOJ's decision and has vowed to continue its investigation into Montano's alleged misappropriation of funds.

The PCGG has also accused Montano of misappropriating funds from the PCGG to pay for his personal expenses, including his medical bills and the purchase of a car. Watchdog turns to jingle to get message across MANILA (AP) 2015 — An anti-corruption watchdog turned to jingles to get its message across as it urged voters to elect honest leaders in the May 14 elections.

The watchdog, the Office of the Ombudsman, released a jingle titled "Watchdog Turns to Jingle" on its website and on YouTube.

The jingle, which is a mix of Tagalog and English, says that voters should elect leaders who are honest, hardworking, and who will not be afraid to speak the truth. It also says that voters should elect leaders who will not be afraid to speak the truth.

The jingle was released on the website of the Office of the Ombudsman, which is the highest anti-corruption watchdog in the Philippines.

1. The first step is to identify the problem. This involves understanding the situation, gathering information, and defining the problem clearly.

POST-TENSIONING. The use of post-tensioning steel tendons in concrete beams and slabs is a common method for increasing the strength and stiffness of the structure. The tendons are embedded in the concrete and tensioned after the concrete has hardened. This process creates a compressive force in the concrete, which counteracts the tensile forces caused by the applied loads. Post-tensioning is often used in bridges, high-rise buildings, and industrial structures.

Angheans ask court to stay off dispute on land

MANILA, Jan. 11 (AP) — A group of Angheans in the Philippines has asked a court to stay off a dispute over land in the region. The group, known as the Anghean People's Front, claims that the land is ancestral and should be returned to them. They have filed a petition with the court, asking for an injunction to prevent the government from taking any action on the land. The dispute has been ongoing for several years and has caused significant tension in the area. The court is expected to hear the case soon.

MILF guerrillas disarm, seize soldiers on Lanao Sur patrol

MANILA, Jan. 11 (AP) — MILF guerrillas in Lanao Sur province, Philippines, have disarmed and seized soldiers on a patrol. The incident occurred in a remote area of the province, where the MILF has been active for years. The soldiers were on a routine patrol when they were ambushed by the guerrillas. The guerrillas then disarmed the soldiers and took them captive. The incident has caused concern among the local population and the government. The government has vowed to take action against the guerrillas and to ensure the safety of the region.

Probe sought of scam in Mt. Province college

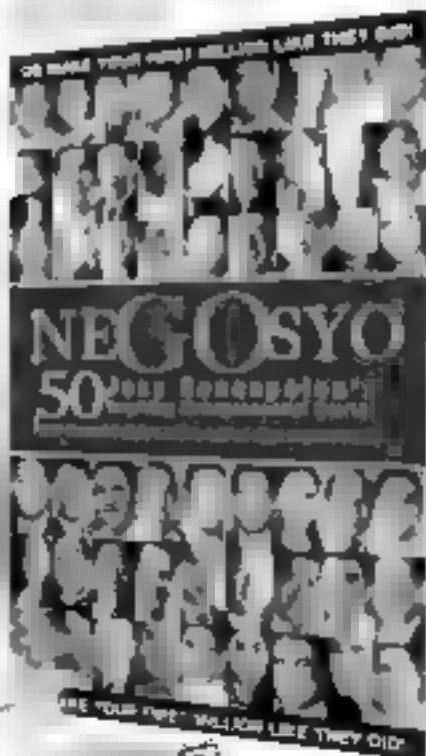

MANILA, Jan. 11 (AP) — A probe is being sought into a scam involving a college in Mt. Province, Philippines. The scam involved the college's management and its financial practices. It was alleged that the college's funds were being misused and that there was a lack of transparency in its operations. The local government and the public have expressed concern about the situation and have called for a thorough investigation. The college's management has denied the allegations and has stated that the college is a legitimate institution. The probe is expected to take several months to complete.

Chirac bows out, calls on France to shun extremism

Victory to U.S. falling short in security scores

PARIS — Jacques Chirac, president of France, bowed out of the presidential race on Tuesday, calling for a new era of moderation and shunning extremism.

Chirac, 57, said he was stepping down after a long and successful career in public service. He called for a new president who would bring a sense of balance and moderation to French politics.

Chirac's announcement came after a series of elections in which he had won a narrow victory over his opponent, Lionel Jospin. Chirac's decision to step down was seen as a surprise by many observers.

Chirac's resignation was announced in a speech to the French people. He said he was stepping down because he felt that he had done his duty as president and that it was time for a new leader to take the helm.

Chirac's resignation was a significant event in French politics. He had been president since 1995 and had won a second term in 2000. His decision to step down was seen as a sign of his commitment to the French people and to the principles of moderation and balance.

After crown princess, Japan's empress finds victim to stress

TOKYO — The Japanese empress, Michiko, is reportedly suffering from stress and exhaustion after a long and demanding reign. She has been seen in public less frequently in recent months, and her health has become a topic of concern for the public.

The empress, who is 57 years old, has been married to the crown prince, Akihito, for over 30 years. She has been a prominent figure in Japanese society, representing the country at various international events and ceremonies.

However, in recent years, she has been seen less often in public. Her health has become a topic of concern for the public, and she has been seen in public less frequently in recent months.

the 1990s, the number of people in the United States who are obese has increased by 50 percent, and the number of people who are overweight has increased by 100 percent. The increase in obesity is particularly alarming because it is now the leading cause of death in the United States, and it is the leading cause of disability. Obesity is also a major risk factor for heart disease, diabetes, and other chronic diseases. The increase in obesity is also a major public health problem because it is a leading cause of death and disability. the results of the study suggest that the use of a single, standardized, self-report measure of social support may be insufficient to capture the complexity of social support in the workplace. Future research should explore the use of multiple measures of social support, including both self-report and observational measures, to better understand the role of social support in workplace health and well-being.

the flow of capital to developing countries is not sufficient.

"It is, however, not an easy task to make a country like a developed one. The economy will grow, but the living conditions will not improve until the country is able to attract foreign investment," says Thomas Kinn, President of the Norwegian Development Cooperation, and he stresses that the countries must be able to attract foreign investment.
